

Middle School Student Enrollment Contract 2008/09

Red Cedar is a school in which you have the opportunity to make your education personally meaningful. The school expects students to grow in essential areas and to fulfill expectations set by the school and teachers. The school also supports students in discovering and pursuing their interests and taking on self-designed projects and studies. For this type of education to work, students must be willing to take responsibility for themselves and demonstrate personal initiative.

Students also must be willing to participate actively in the school community, treat others with kindness and respect, abide by the rules of the school, and act as a good role model to and be considerate of the younger students.

New students are asked to make a commitment before joining the school. Re-enrolling students are asked to renew their commitment each year.

In choosing to become a Red Cedar student for the upcoming school year, I commit to taking responsibility for myself and my learning. I agree to put forth my best effort, to fulfill the work that is asked of me in class and for homework, to initiate exploration in areas of interest, and to demonstrate my learning in a variety of ways.

I also agree to treat others in the school with respect and kindness, abide by the rules of the school, and actively participate in the school community.
